DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 10/31/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to the Applicant's argument that "one of the differences between the present invention and the cited documents is that the compression is conducted on the basis that an image is divided into plural image parts until the number of parts satisfy a set dividing number", it should be noted that Cooper clearly teaches that compressing an image which is divided into plural image quality levels in accordance with the code sizes (Figs. 1 and 3), which inherently shows the image quality levels satisfy the code sizes.

Furthermore, the Applicant contends that the cited references do not show "setting the dividing number set based on various features". These claimed features are allowable.

For the foregoing reasons, it is believed that the rejection should be sustained.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 52 is objected to because of the following informalities: the period is missing at the end of the claim (i.e., after "unit"). Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

4. Claims 62-66 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter as follows. Claims 62-66 define a computer based structural organization embodying functional descriptive material. However, the claims do not define a computer readable medium or memory and is thus non-statutory for that reason (i.e., "when functional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium it becomes structurally and functionally interrelated to the medium and will be statutory in most cases since use of technology permits the function of the descriptive material to be realized" – Guidelines Annex IV). That is, the scope of the presently claimed a computer based structural organization can range from paper on which the program is written, to a program simply contemplated and memorized by a person. The Examiner suggests amending the claims to embody the program on "computer-readable medium" or equivalent in order to make the claim statutory. Any amendment to the claim should be commensurate with its corresponding disclosure.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 52, 56, 57, and 61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cooper (U.S. Patent No. 6,359,548) in view of Levien (U.S. Patent No. 5,365,602).

Regarding claim 52, Cooper discloses:

- code size setting unit 23 to set one or more code sizes (Fig. 1);
- a compression unit 10 to compress the image data which is divided into plural image quality levels in accordance with the code sizes, which implicitly shows the satisfaction of the dividing number set, to generate compressed code data by compressing the image quality levels (Fig. 1 and Fig. 3);

Cooper does not disclose expressly a dividing unit to divide image data into a plurality of parts.

Levien discloses a dividing unit to divide the image code into a plurality of segments (i.e., 17 segments) (col. 4, lines 62-63).

Cooper & Levien are combinable because they are from image compression.

At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to employ the dividing unit in Cooper as taught by Levien.

The suggestion/motivation for doing so would have been to improve compression performance (Cooper, col. 2, lines 19-21).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to combine Cooper with Levien to obtain the invention as specified in claim 52.

Regarding claim 57, since this is a method claim corresponding to apparatus claim 52, the discussion of claim 52 is applied hereto.

Regarding claims 56 and 61, the Examiner takes an Official Notice because the JPEG 2000 is very well-known in the art for compressing an image.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 53-55 and 58-60 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claims 53-55 and 58-60, the prior art, taken either singly or in combination, does not teach the dividing number set corresponds to a transmission line capacity and an image quality level, and a color component, and a resolution level.

Conclusion

9. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
